

Android Management setup

To manage Android devices with Cerberus Enterprise, you must first connect your organization to Google Android Enterprise.

The setup process usually takes a few minutes and requires a work email address (for example, name@enterprise.com).

What happens during setup

- You will be redirected to Google Android Enterprise.
- You sign in with your work email address.
- Google creates the Android Management account for your organization.
- You are redirected back to Cerberus Enterprise to complete the setup.

Important information

Make sure to use a work email address, not a personal Gmail account. This email is used to create your Google Admin account for Android Management.

Next steps

After completing the setup, create an Enrollment token and choose the appropriate provisioning method for the device.
