Company-owned devices for work and personal use

Setting up a company-owned device with a work profile enables the device for both work and personal use. On company-owned devices with work profiles:

- Most app, data, and other management policies apply to the work profile only.
- Employees' personal profiles remain private. However, enterprises can enforce certain device-wide policies and personal usage policies.
- Enterprises can use Block scope to enforce compliance actions on an entire device or only its work profile.
- Device disenrolling and device commands apply to an entire device.

To set up a company-owned device with a work profile, use one of the following provisioning methods (ensure that the enrollment token has Personal usage set to Allowed):

QR code method

On a new or factory-reset device, the user (typically an IT admin) taps the screen six times in the same spot. This triggers the device to prompt the user to scan a QR code.
